

ABOUT

ABOUT GEORGIA BENEFITS SUPPORT

Experience that understands the system — and the family.

Jayana Stalley is a mom of three, and two of her children have disabilities. Her daughter receives Supplemental Security Income (SSI), so she knows firsthand what it feels like to gather records, wait for notices, and make sense of complicated rules.

She also brings more than 10 years of experience across healthcare, health insurance, and customer service, including work as a benefits counselor advocating for people with disabilities.

Georgia Benefits Support was created to help families move forward with more clarity, confidence, and compassion.

Independent guidance: Georgia Benefits Support is not a government agency or law firm. It does not determine eligibility, guarantee approval, or provide legal advice. Program rules can change; always confirm details with the responsible agency and your official notice.

Georgia Benefits Support
Clarity. Compassion. Results.

START WHERE YOU ARE

Start where you are

Begin with the benefit in front of you.

You do not need to understand every program before taking the next step. Start with the notice, application, renewal, or question that is creating the most stress.

Disability benefits

SSI, Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI), work history, medical evidence, and age-18 reviews.

Health coverage & supports

Georgia Medicaid, PeachCare for Kids, Katie Beckett, home-based services, and NOW/COMP waiver navigation.

Food assistance & case maintenance

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), renewals, document requests, notices, and next-step planning.

Not sure where your situation fits? Start with the notice or question you have today.

SUPPORT THAT FITS

Support that fits

Choose the level of help you need.

Free education and resources

Practical guides, checklists, and plain-language information to understand programs, organize documents, and prepare for the next step.

Paid one-to-one navigation

Personalized support sorting through your situation, identifying questions to ask, preparing documents, or making an action plan.

Training for organizations

Clearer benefits knowledge and family-centered tools for staff, providers, and community partners.

Free information comes first. Paid sessions and organizational training help sustain the free resources available to Georgia families.

What navigation does: explains options, helps organize information, and supports informed next steps. What navigation does not do: make eligibility decisions, guarantee outcomes, or replace legal advice.

YOUR NEXT STEP

Your next step

Bring the paperwork. Leave with a plan.

A little preparation helps turn a complicated situation into focused questions and manageable actions.

- 1 Choose one priority.
What decision, deadline, or question needs attention first?
- 2 Gather what you have.
Bring notices, application confirmations, medical or school records, income information, and recent correspondence.
- 3 Write down key dates.
Note when a letter arrived, any response deadline, and who you have already contacted.
- 4 Ask for the next action.
Focus on what to submit, whom to contact, and how to document follow-up.
